

(C) Sumitha Publishers

Once upon a time,
there was a king.
He thought that he knew everything
and was very proud.

(C) Sumitha Publishers

To prove that no one knew more than he did,
he sent messengers from village to village
beating the drum
inviting learned people to come to his palace to solve three riddles that he would ask.

The riddles were in the form of questions.

