

Once upon a time
there was a merchant
who sold salt.
He tied sacks of salt
on his donkey's back and went to the city to sell the salt.

(C) Sumitha Publishers

On the way,
they had to cross a river.
The bridge across the river was very narrow.

(C) Sumitha Publishers