To Do or Not To Do

(c) Sumitha Publishers

Retold by

J. B. Disanayaka

Illustrated by

Manjula Karunathilaka
Once upon a time there lived a Gamarala. Rich as he was, he owned house and property, cattle and even a donkey.

Gamarala’s little son loved this donkey very much.
As time passed, Gamarala began to face hard times. He had to sell all his land and property. He lost his cattle. The only possession he had was the donkey.
At last, he thought of selling the donkey too. The son was not happy at all to sell his donkey. But what can stop it? They had to sell it so that they could find some food to eat!